Ben Frederick from Renew Baltimore explained a proposed referendum item to slash city taxes in the expectation that it would encourage businesses and families to move to Baltimore.

Amy Sheridan called for recommendations for new board members and noted that Margaret De Arcangelis is chairing the nominating committee and will present a slate of nominees in April.

Safety Committee Chair James Prost said he collected 25 names of members who attended the BHCA open house in February and signed on to be part of a safety working group to explore several steps to curb crime in the neighborhood and to revitalize the weekly citizen patrols.

There being no further business, the chair adjourned the meeting at 8:45 p.m.
